Statements made by Vaughan and King compared to evidence from independent witnesses. This table includes evidence from Vaughan and King where they contradict each other, or contradict their testimony in court.

Statements from independent witness supporting Vaughan and King.	Statements made by Vaughan and King.	Statements from independent witness contradicting Vaughan and King, or where Vaughan and King contradict each other.
	Vaughan and King were in 5 China St when Mr McArthur entered and became abusive, and assaulted Vaughan getting him in a headlock. Page 2 , brown highlight.	Mr Eger states he heard Mr McArthur shouting at King 'he started it' a couple of times. Page 7, highlight orange. Vaughan inadvertently admitted in court that he 'had a go at' Mr McArthur.
	Mr McArthur then dragged Vaughan out of the door in a headlock. King and Vaughan Pages 5 and 2, brown highlight.	Mr Ellis states that he saw Vaughan (the 'taller man') being pushed out of the door backwards, page 10, blue highlight.
	Mr McArthur then kicked Vaughan's feet from under him. Pages 5 and 2, first green highlight.	Mr Ellis describes both Mr McArthur and Vaughan as falling heavily against a vehicle. Page 10, green highlight.
	Version 1. King saw Mr McArthur bash Vaughan's head onto the pavement several times. King describes this clearly, and with no arm in the way. Page 5, yellow highlight.	No evidence of any injury from doctor. Vaughan contradicts her claiming that his arm was between his head and the pavement. Page 2, yellow highlight.

	Version 2. Vaughan claims that Mr McArthur tried to bash his head into the pavement but his arm was in the way so he was not hurt. Page 2, yellow highlight.	Witness A states that Mr McArthur was holding Vaughan's head, and that Vaughan's head was against the pavement. Page 12, yellow highlight.
	Causing Vaughan to scream out in pain. Pages 5 and 2, red highlight.	Mr Egar clearly describes the things he heard and he did not hear a scream. If there was one he could not have failed to. See notes and photos.
	Mr McArthur then got up and kicked Vaughan in the back several times (written version), two or three times (in court). Page 5, light blue highlight. Page 2, light blue highlight.	No evidence of any injury. Vaughan is not clear about how many times he was kicked. If you had been kicked fourteen of fifteen times you might not know. If you had been kicked two or three times you would not forget which it was.
	Vaughan states that Mr McArthur started kicking him, then punched him in the face. King states that Mr McArthur punched Vaughan in the face then kicked him.	Ludicrous. Pages 5 and 2. Oh what a tangled web we weave, when first we practice to deceive.....
